ROSES

The Rose with its wide color range and incomparable fragrance is justly called the Queen of Flowers. Another reason for the great popularity of the Rose here is that Roses are unusually well adapted to our Northwest climate. Here they form flowers in profusion from Spring until late Autumn. The blooms are in better color and last longer than in any other part of America. The various forms and types of Roses lend themselves to infinite use.

HOW TO USE ROSES

BUSH ROSES are planted in formal beds, or a design of beds making a Rose garden; informal groupings, along walks or driveways, in parking strips or in the foreground of evergreen shrubbery.

CLIMBING ROSES are so perfectly suited to the porch, garden wall, the fence, or as a specimen on a trellis, on garden pillars, against the summer house or other building.

FLORIBUNDAS (larger improved polyantha) with their clusters of bloom and more dwarf habit make the perfect and most colorful of compact beds or borders, low hedges or add color to the shrub border.

TREE ROSES are the aristocrats of Rosedom! They lend height to your garden and accentuate its beauty. The Tree Rose is excellent for lining driveways, walks, accents in rose beds, or as lawn or parkway specimens. They are also frequently used in group massing and provide unequalled beauty and color as a result of their profuse blooming and exquisite flowers on long stems.

CULTURE OF ROSES

The growing of Roses in our area is comparatively simple. Rose bushes may be set out at any time during the winter or early spring. December, January and February are the best months for planting but bushes may also be successfully set out in March or April. If it is later than this, Malmo Roses are available, growing in containers in Rose soil, for all Summer planting. When planting, spread out the roots over a cone of soil with the bud or basal branching point barely under the surface and firm in by tamping. The proper root requirements are a rich garden soil, preferably worked two feet deep, rotted cow manure or Malmo Organic Fertilizer or both. The control of pests by spraying or dusting together with proper pruning in early spring are the other principal requirements for healthy and profusely blooming roses.

The list we present below includes the best of the new varieties as well as the older favorites. We believe our stock to be the most complete line of heavy grade, number one quality roses available in the Northwest.

Our indoor ROSE ROOM features color plates of roses to help in your selection.

See Hampton Court Palace Gardens, an exact replica of the beautiful gardens originally built in London by King Henry VIII in 1527, reproduced by Clark Malmo in Seattle for garden lovers. Visit our rose test garden between May and September.—160 Varieties on display.
